British Orthopaedic Association	Guideline	General	General	The amendment to the guideline appears reasonable on the basis of the evidence gathered. We note that if NPWT is used, a proper seal must be achieved to avoid a paradoxical increase in the risk of infection. We wonder if a comment about correct application of whichever dressing is chosen would be of benefit in the guideline.	Thank you for raising this point. The committee discussed this and added a comment about it to the rationale and impact section of the guideline and to the committee discussion of the evidence section of the evidence review.
Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA)	Comments Form	002	Question 1a	We are not aware of any published or on-going research in this area.	Thank you for this information. On this basis the committee have agreed to proceed with the research recommendation.
Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA)	Comments Form	002	Question 1b	With this research you may be able to identify and recommend a specific temporary dressing that is more clinically and cost effective.	Thank you. The committee hope that the research question will address that issue.
Medicines and Healthcare	Comments Form	002	Question 2	No challenges identified from a regulatory perspective.	Thank you for confirming this.

Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh	Guideline	006	006	RCSEd is happy with this guideline as it allows the use of NPWT but is worded to encourage the surgeon to use dressings that essentially does its job effectively, one of which is NPWT.	Thank you for confirming that you are content with the new recommendation and guideline.
