Equality impact assessment – Guidance development

STA Targeted-release budesonide for treating primary IgA nephropathy [ID1434]

The impact on equality has been assessed during this appraisal according to the principles of the NICE equality scheme.

Final draft guidance

(when no draft guidance was issued)

|---|
| 1. Have the potential equality issues identified during the scoping process been addressed by the committee, and, if so, how? |
|---|

The scoping process identified that IgA nephropathy is more prevalent in men than in women and also amongst Asian and White ethnic groups.
--

It is most commonly diagnosed in young people and people under 40-years old.
--

The prevalence of the condition in different groups of people was not considered to be an equality issue. Targeted-released budesonide was found to be cost effective for the population covered by its marketing authorisation.
--

|--|
| 2. Have any other potential equality issues been raised in the submissions, expert statements or academic report, and, if so, how has the committee addressed these? |
|--|

No

|--|
| 3. Have any other potential equality issues been identified by the committee, and, if so, how has the committee addressed these? |
|--|

No

4. Do the recommendations make it more difficult in practice for a specific group to access the technology compared with other groups? If so, what are the barriers to, or difficulties with, access for the specific group?

No

5. Is there potential for the recommendations to have an adverse impact on people with disabilities because of something that is a consequence of the disability?

No

6. Are there any recommendations or explanations that the committee could make to remove or alleviate barriers to, or difficulties with, access identified in questions 4 or 5, or otherwise fulfil NICE's obligations to promote equality?

N/A

7. Have the committee's considerations of equality issues been described in the final draft guidance, and, if so, where?

Paragraph 3.13 states that the committee considered that there were no equality issues.
